

CULTURE, HEALTH AND WELLBEING INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE

Digital Conference: 21st, 22nd, 23rd June 2021

INEQUALITY : POWER : SUSTAINABILITY

During the pandemic, the arts and creativity have helped us navigate uncertainty and been agents of hope. The Culture, Health and Wellbeing international conference will provide a space for exploring our individual and collective experiences and help us articulate a vision for the future.

The programme will include keynotes, debates, presentations, workshops and performances for different time zones, curated in partnership with colleagues around the world.

We will showcase inspiring work from across the field spanning policy, research and practice. We want to place lived experience and co-production at the heart of the programme and welcome proposals for research and practice that reflect these priorities. Our main themes of Inequality, Power and Sustainability are deliberately broad to encourage a wide range of perspectives on arts, culture, creativity, health and wellbeing.

Research papers can be reports of original studies or theoretical contributions with a clear focus on arts, culture, creativity, health and wellbeing. If your abstract is accepted you will be offered an oral presentation and/or publication in our peer reviewed conference proceedings. We will feature a limited number of high quality theoretical contributions relevant to the themes. We invite scholars in various fields including philosophy, social science, psychology and medicine to submit abstracts that clearly inform a critical research agenda in the field.

Submissions will open on September 7th and close on November 30th.

Further information is available at www.chw21.org.uk

The Culture, Health and Wellbeing International Conference is delivered by Arts & Health South West on behalf of the Culture, Health and Wellbeing Alliance. Our academic partners are the University of Exeter, University College London, University of Nottingham, and Tampere University.

